THIS IN THE CASE OF UNITED STATES V. JOHN STRAND:

Mr. Manning was observed using highly inflammatory and essentially prejudicial language in an especially hostile Cross-Examination of Mr. Strand.

The jury was unduly influenced by Mr. Manning's lack of objectivity in his portrayal of the whole of a group / population to which the Defendant (and I) belong.

An entire class of people comprised of Millions were denigrated and vilified; stoking political (and perhaps racial) tensions.

The jury's response was excessively harsh as a direct result of Mr. Manning's false criminalization of all things with which Mr. Strand was associated - and he now faces up to 24 or 25 years in prison on 5 counts, when only 2 of the more minor ones technically apply.

He did little more than trespass, but faces spending the remainder of his middle-aged years under incarceration for an improperly solicited verdict.

Aliance for Defending Freedom will be / has been informed.
